Train to be a union rep!

Becoming a union representative enables you to make a real difference in your workplaces and spaces.

The union offers a range of modularised training, online and in-person to ensure the union has a cadre of capable, confident and competent representatives and an active network to support each other.

The union representative training pathway is tailored to the role and your interest, from being a local rep, case handler, union learning rep, health and safety rep, equality rep, negotiations rep to organising rep or communications rep, and many more.
